Campus Rolls to the Polls

22 Polling Stations Will Be Open 9 To 4

Today, students will go to the polls to elect the officers of the various student activities. Male representatives will be contesting for three positions, female for four.

Four runners are striving for the Presidency of the McGill Union. They are: Dick Dibben, Don Harterre, Stuart Smith, Vito Volterra. Bill Wilson and Don Wright are competing for the position of Chairman of the Students' Athletic Council. As a result of the acclamation of Louis Donolo to the position of President of the Students' Society, he will be leaving his present post as S.E.C. Engineering Representative on July 1. This position is the object of the third male election, or rather by-election and will be sought by Mike Novac and Ian Soutar.

For President of the Women's Union, the following are contesting: Denise Benzacar, Joan Fish, Judy Spofford. Those running for Secretary of the Women's Union are: Carol Black, Judy Darling, Anna Guthrie, Renee Rothman.

Lorna Houston, Sue Money and June Steinberg are competing for the Vice-Presidency of the Students' Union. Those contesting for the Presidency of the M.W.S.A. are Lorraine Brender, Judy Kaulbach, Judy Rochester, Claire Tucker.

The successful candidates will assume office on July 1.

VOTING STATIONS

There will be a total of twenty-two voting boxes set up on the campus. These will be placed in every faculty and building. Male graduate students, who have the right to vote only for the president of the Union may exercise their franchise in the Registrar's Office.

There has been an innovation in the voting formality this year. Every voter must present a student identification card, or, in lieu of this, some other form of identification.

These polling stations will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. everywhere, though, if the situation permits, the station may be closed earlier with the permission of the electoral officer. Counting of the ballots will take place after 4 o'clock, and, the results will be included in tomorrow's Daily.

ELECTION STATISTICS

In last year's election, 57.4% of the eligible voters voted. The faculty percentages ranged from 37% in Medicine, to 81.2% in Physical Education. In previous years, the candidates held "election rallies," but these were discontinued two years ago. The Scarlet Key and the Red Wings are assisting in carrying out the election.

R.V.C. Shield Contest Won By Claora Styron

by SNOOKIE LIEFF

"Women's fraternities are intolerant." This was the conclusion reached by Claora Styron, who yesterday won the R.V.C. Shield as the most outstanding woman speaker at McGill.

Speaking on "the role of women's fraternities at McGill," Miss Styron felt that fraternities should embody the spirit of tolerance and brotherhood. Instead, she said, they have become merely secular groups of people who happen to approve of each other's ideas.

Miss Styron, who comes from Lincoln, Mass., is in second year Arts, honouring in Greek and Philosophy. She stated that the whole of McGill is tolerant, as shown by its cosmopolitan atmosphere, but fraternities stand out as islands of intolerance on three levels. They do not accept a person on the basis of his or her own personality, but also take into consideration society background, race, and religious and cultural influences.

Since fraternities are intolerant, Miss Styron said, they should be abolished, and women should join outing clubs and write poetry.

English Department Presents Shaw's 'The Man Of Destiny'

Napoleon, conqueror of Europe, has been found on the McGill Campus. His alter ego is Christopher Byrd, fourth year arts student, who will portray the fiery Corsican in the McGill English Department production of Shaw's "The Man of Destiny". This Shavian portrait of Bonaparte will be presented as the second half of a double bill directed by Griffith Brewer. "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets", a sketch about Shakespeare and Queen Elizabeth, will be staged as a curtain raiser to the longer play.

CAST

Cast opposite Chris Byrd as a mysterious and beautiful woman who engages Napoleon in a battle of wits is Jane Anders. This will mark the third time that Mr. Byrd and Miss Anders have been costarred in English Department productions. Last December, they appeared together in Jonson's "Volpone" — Mr. Byrd in the title role and Miss Anders as Celia. Last March they appeared as Beatrice and Benedick in Shakespeare's

"Much Ado About Nothing".

David Berlin has been cast as the Lieutenant — an utterly incompetent and foolish young man who manages to misunderstand everyone. Nigel Baxter has been cast as Giuseppe, a philosophical Italian in keeper.

William Shakespeare in "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" will be played by Geoffroy Cosgrove. The play presents a portrait of the great dramatist as a young man, and involves him in a chance meeting with Queen Elizabeth I. The Virgin Queen will be played by Penelope Farndale. In the title role of the Dark Lady described by Shakespeare in his sonnets will be Valerie Jamieson. Nigel Baxter will be seen as a beefeater.

Sets for the two plays have been designed and executed by Griffith Brewer. Mr. Brewer, a well known Montreal actor, is acting in the double capacity of director and designer.

COSTUMES

Costumes for "The Man of Destiny" and "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" have been designed by Althea Douglas. Mrs. Douglas has been designing for English Department productions for several years now, and has also designed for the Montreal Repertory Theatre and in New York. She is being assisted in executing the costumes by Miss Otilie Douglas.

Lighting will be by Creighton Douglas.

The two plays will be presented in Moyse Hall on Thursday March 7, Friday March 8, and Saturday March 9. Tickets are on sale in the Arts Building and may be reserved by telephoning MA. 9181, local 370.

DATES COMMITTEE NOTICE

All clubs and societies planning campus wide events for the session 1957-58 are requested to submit to the Dates Committee, a list of such dates and the facilities required.

This must be in the hands of the Chairman not later than March 15, 1957.

Elections And Large Families

In case anyone wondered what those funny looking boxes were doing in the various campus buildings, to-day is election day. To-day students cast their ballots for the people who are to be their representatives before the public and to run their extra-curricular programme for the forthcoming year.

Interest in the student elections appears to have hit an all time low at McGill. It was only after extending the nomination period that there was any race at all. As it is the highest post which a student can attain in extra-curricular activities president of the students society was acclaimed. While we have the highest respect for the president-elect we feel that neither he nor the office that he holds will benefit from the acclamation. It is almost incredible to believe that in a university as large as this only one man felt that he had the capabilities and the experience to make a good student president. Student disinterest in campus politics is painfully obvious.

Despite all this there are several first class candidates running in both the male and female sections of the election. We urge you to attempt to choose the candidate whom you feel to be the most capable (how you are going to do this when you don't know the candidates from a hole in the ground we can't answer). We urge you to vote if for no other reason than to prevent the candidate with the largest family from winning the election.

To Hell And Back

As the snow sculptures drip slowly into formless masses, and the ice palace becomes the town's most expensive pool water, as the sun shines stronger and longer and the fires of Spring are once again kindled, the student prepares to hibernate to prepare for exams and the last issues of the Daily appear. It is great temptation to stand on the literary pedestal, and cast an all-discerning, non-forgiving eye over the past academic year, point out its highlights, and wax pedantic and prosey on the faults of the students and the staff of McGill. A number of serious problems are still, with us — the absence of a good Union, inadequate facilities, shortage of staff, lack of money, the death of the Old McGill spirit and any number of others.

There are also a number of things to praise — the resurgence of the Debating Union, the immense success of the Red and White Revue, the fun at Carnival and the large literary output from the students of the University that has found its way into print. Never before has the Ruin on Sherbrooke St. appeared so inadequate as now, when so much has gone on in such a limited space, and where the shortage of rooms and proper Union facilities has been so acutely felt.

But McGill still seems to have something that many universities has not — besides a large and uncomfortable amount of tradition to live up to. Visiting some American colleges last weekend we were impressed by the uniformity of appearance and attitude found in these places. These universities seemed full of pleasant young men who all looked alike.

The modern motto of America these days is "Conformity". McGill is still at least one place that is managing to retain some individuality, where the student is not being forced into mould, however admirable the product of the mould may be. It is still a place where beards and strange political parties can flourish, still a university where the students can in print or in public disagree with the faculty and express their own views. The Ivy League outlook touches us little, there is an increasingly large body of students who come to college curious and enquiring, who come to get an education in the real sense, who come to search, and to express themselves, to whom a university is just not another stretch of the road to a higher pay packet.

In this age of Anxiety, in the era of conformity, McGill is at least doing something to maintain the democratic tradition that it is every man's right to go to Hell in his own way, if he so chooses.

Campus Puzzle: Which one is running for election?

Quality Not Quantity

Sir:

Having read this morning's edition of the McGill Daily I noticed in the pen-sketches of the various political office nominees, that said nominees seem to have participated in a great many activities on or off the campus.

I wonder if it is at all possible for some authoritative person to enlighten the unsuspecting voting body to what extent these people have been active in the numerous events mentioned therein? Qualities mentioned in a pen-sketch should be limited to executive positions held in McGill functions and not the various jobs they have done on or off the campus.

Candidates, please do not misinterpret my above statement if you feel you have been wronged. I merely hold that it is not the quantity of activities, but the quality of your participation in activities that counts.

Joe Puddicombe, B. Com. 2

Problem Tax

In recent weeks we have been hearing and reading a great deal about the problem of education in order to meet the demand of the anticipated expansion of our country. One point which is often repeated is that college education should not be out of reach of a person intellectually qualified but financially unable to enroll. Many suggestions have been given to solve this problem and grants and scholarships are available to some. However there are some students who try to pay their own way through college and must count on their summer savings to do so. To those of us who do this, this time of year is a little rough to handle, particularly when the Income Tax forms are to be made out. The sad part of it is that the government is actually taxing us for our education. This seems to contradict its policy of student aid.

To illustrate my point, let us say that a student is able to earn $1500 during the summer, of which $500 is taxable to the amount of roughly $100. But tuition fees are almost $500; plus $100 tax. Therefore we are paying $600 to further our education. If the government allows deductions for pension plans, union and professional dues allmonny and separation allowance, I think it is only reasonable that education be included and I know it would ease things considerably for many of us.

I would be interested to know if anything could be done to remedy this situation.

Yours truly,

W. B. Lamb, B. Arch. IV

Daily Interview No. 5

Professor D. O. Hebb

by RON FLEISCHMAN

To many students familiar with Psych. 21, Professor Donald O. Hebb appears to be a staid and accurate lecturer, one who "knows his stuff too well" as one campus critic put it.

But Dr. Hebb is more than he appears on the surface. His ability today is the result of many years of hard work, and he leaves behind an impressive scholastic record.

ACADEMIC CAREER

Born in Chester, Nova Scotia, he attended Dalhousie University and took his B.A. in 1925, then taught high school in Nova Scotia and Quebec till 1927. From 1928 to 1934 he held the position of elementary school principal in an administrative and supervisory capacity, while at the same time attending McGill on a part-time basis. He received his M.A. in 1932. Dr. Hebb later attended the University of Chicago, where he worked with Dr. K. S. Lashley on physiological and comparative psychology, then went on to Harvard, and a Ph.D. in 1936 after writing a thesis on "Innate Organization of Visual Perception" under the direction of Dr. Lashley. As an Instructor, tutor, and research assistant from 1936 to 1937, he recalls that "after eight years of study, they were paying me only 700 dollars per year, but in those days, a dollar was still worth a dollar".

Dr. Hebb returned to McGill in 1937, where he became a Fellow of the Montreal Neurological Institute, then served as Lecturer and Assistant Professor at Queen's University from 1939-42. He established the Bulletin of the Canadian Psychological Association in 1940 and served as its editor till 1942, after which as a Research Fellow of Harvard University, he spent five years with the Yerkes Laboratories of Primate Biology. Returning to McGill in 1947, he was appointed Professor of Psychology and later Chairman of the Department, the position he now holds, as well as fellowships and executive positions on American, British and Canadian psychological associations.

STUMBLES ONTO FREUD

Dr. Hebb literally "blundered" into his present career. He started out on a career writing fiction, then discovered that writing wasn't really what he wanted. He had come across the writings of Freud, and followed the advice of a friend who recommended a study of Pavlov's works, which could possibly "sharpen up Freud", as he put it. An interest then developed for writing skill in order to communicate effectively with his fellow-researchers, but must also know how to translate his knowledge into terms the public will understand". Dr. Hebb further expressed that he has much respect for the scientist who is skilled at the art of explaining complex subjects to a public having no technical training, and that few scientists are making a real effort to convey such information to the layman because the task is difficult and very time-consuming.

Asked about newspaper and magazine reporting of psychology, Dr. Hebb claimed that psychology has been "oversold" to the public and this has done much harm. He has faith in psychology as a science and believes that the by-products of its scientific research will have great value, but does not believe that it should be claimed as a panacea for all human ills, — "some of these publicists recommend psychiatry for everything, and this is sheer nonsense", — "for instance, intelligence tests are not infallible, but like the thermometer you use to test your hot water, it's better than rough personal estimates such as you get when you plunge your hand into that water".

HOBBIES

Well, it isn't all work for Dr. Hebb; there are hobbies as well. In his spare time, he reads detective novels and science fiction. He agreed that while it is true that this type of writing may be representative of a refusal to face reality, it was also true that one gets tired just facing reality all day long and a change helps, — "those gloomy novels telling us how to improve the human race were probably written by people who could not get their teeth into human problems". — "for my money Al Capp is the Shakespeare of this century". He also thinks very highly of Pogo (no, not Arnold!) and took a liking to Fearless Fosdick before it began its decline as a comic strip. Since Dr. Hebb hails

Students Of The World Unite In Celebrating Ghana's Independence

Like their counterparts in Africa, students of Ghana are now celebrating the independence of their country which was declared yesterday, and are holding minor celebrations to mark the occasion.

In Montreal, the celebrations include a Sherry Party for the British Commonwealth Nations on Wednesday March 6; a film show on some aspects of life in Ghana at 8 p.m. on Friday March 8; and a Dance on Saturday the 9. Admission to the sherry party is by invitation, but the Dance to be held in the McGill Union, 690 Sherbrooke Street West, and the Film Show (in the Physical Sciences Auditorium of McGill University); are open to all students on the campus.

Throughout the world this week, wherever political freedom is valued more than anything else, people will be celebrating the Independence of the Gold Coast, now to be known as Ghana.

In the country itself, celebrations have already begun, although the official date of Independence is March 6, and will continue for several days if not weeks. The country is playing host to many visitors from all parts of the world, some of whom are the official representatives of their countries and nations. Among these honourable visitors are the Duchess of Kent representing the Queen of England, Vice-President Nixon representing the U.S., and Mr. George Prudham, Mines Minister, as the chief Canadian representative.

Math. Professor Is Guest Speaker

The McGill Mathematical Society has invited a distinguished mathematician from outside McGill to deliver a lecture here. The guest speaker will be Professor Israel Halpern of Queens University, who will deliver a lecture on "Ergotics" on Wednesday, March 13, at 1 p.m. in room 102 of the MacDonald Physics Building. All are invited. A reception in the honour of Professor Halpern is also being held on Tuesday night, at 8 p.m., at Hillel House, 3460 Stanley St., and members of the Society are invited.

from the Maritimes; it should behoove him to have some sailing experience, and so it is: he likes sailing in a boat he calls "The Raven" (why this name?—he does not know). In his boyhood days, he would borrow fishermen's boats and sail along the coast.

Dr. Hebb now lives in Montreal with his wife and two daughters, and has published some 44 papers dealing with intelligence and emotion in man, chimpanzee, porpoise and rat. His book "The Organization of Behaviour" was published in 1949, and he is now writing his "Textbook of Psychology" for use in college courses.

After our interview, Dr. Hebb showed us around the labs in the Donner Building, and we were introduced to "Geoffrey", a very charming rat who is conditioned to do our every bidding at the snap of a finger. Perhaps we now know Dr. Hebb favors Pogo rather than Arnold.

President Of The Students' Union

Dick Dibben

Since the present union is inadequate to cater to student demands, a new union is essential. I shall do my utmost to further this project.

However, improvements can and should be made to the present building. Since our union lacks sufficient meeting facilities, I would suggest:

(1) Folding partitions be installed in the lounge.

(2) The possibility of building a temporary addition at the rear of the union be carefully studied. This might be used for meetings, lounges or exhibitions. Furthermore, I would attempt to institute closer co-ordination and co-operation with the various clubs. If elected, I would encourage a wider use of the union.

My platform is to represent the Faculty of Engineering to the best of my ability. I shall strive to get a second engineering representative to give the engineers a fairer voice in the S.E.C. The engineers express themselves as a group and I would like to encourage this by enabling the E.U.S. to gain greater use of University facilities in which to carry out engineering functions.

Ian Soutar

PEN SKETCH

During his years at McGill, Ian Soutar has shown his administrative ability and enthusiasm in university activities. This year he was Chairman of the Carnival Ball and also of the Engineering and Physical Science Tours for "Meet McGill '56". He is in 4th year Mining Engineering and is a member of Phi Epsilon Alpha Society. I could make many promises but it must be realized that the Faculty of Engineering represents only 5% of the voting power on warmth about her which makes itself felt immediately, and it can safely be said that to know her is to like and admire her. Her qualities make her eminently suited to the position of Women's Union President — friendliness, charm, sincerity, and capability. For Denise is also an extremely efficient and intelligent student: last year she was awarded the Marion McColl Daly Prize for scholarship, extra-curricular activities, and citizenship. Her many activities on campus include:

- 3 — Organize a Summer Job Bureau enabling a university woman to directly find employment with business firms, hotels, and camps.
- 4 — Reorganization of the files and initiation of a detailed report system to promote greater efficiency in Women's Union Duties.

PEN SKETCH

Because of her experience in many campus activities, we feel Judy Spofford would make an excellent President of the Women's Union. Judy has been on the executive of the Women's Union, the co-chairman of canvassing for the Hungarian Students Fund Drive, or the programme committee of the McGill Union Board of Managers and Publicity co-chairman for the Winter Carnival Revue. She was on McGill Open House, a member of the Red Wing Society and last year's editor of the R.V.C. year book.

Lorraine Brender

PEN SKETCH

During her three years at McGill, Lorraine has participated actively in athletics and held many executive positions in student affairs. By playing intramural basketball, volleyball, badminton, ice-hockey, squash, tennis, volleyball, and taking part in modern dancing and watershow Lorraine has gained valuable practical knowledge of women's athletic activities. Excelling in volleyball and tennis, she represented McGill for three years on these Intercollegiate Teams.

Lorraine has been Women's Sports Editor of the Daily for the last two years and Publicity Manager of the M.W.S.A.A. thus gaining a comprehensive overall picture of women's athletics and proving that she is extremely capable and interested in these matters.

Showing her versatility, Lorraine is W.U. Theatre Ticket Chairman, and represents her faculty on the Students' Executive Council.

Lorraine's record speaks for itself, thus we feel that she is the best choice for President of the M.W.S.A.A.

To maintain the high efficiency that marked Sheila Morris' M.W.S.A.A. Council is, I am sure, the aim of the succeeding president.

Doing the publicity for the M.W.S.A.A. these past two years, I was very fortunate to have the opportunity to see a complete picture of how the council is run and where the interests of the women students lie.

Through constant publicity, a wider range of students might be encouraged to participate in intramural athletics.

Lorraine Brender

Judy Kaulbach

If elected I would like to carry out the following:

1. Send a semi-annual letter to all women students describing the positions on the council and the athletic programme for the coming term.
2. Plan an intramural ski day in the Laurentians with a full programme of downhill, slalom and novelty races to include the beginner and advanced skiers.
3. Strive to improve the publicity of women's athletics on the McGill campus.

If elected, I will do my utmost to uphold the standards of the M.W.S.A.A.

Judy Kaulbach

Judy Rochester

Little improvement is possible over Sheila Morris's excellent work on M.W.S.A.A. but as a platform my aims are these; to reduce student apathy in the intramural program through a new system encouraging participation in intramural sports by all campus groups; to develop such new projects as the golf, swimming and skiing clubs;

to concentrate more fully on promotion and publicity for Women's Sports;

and do all in my power to encourage both active participation and spectator interest in Women's Sports at McGill.

Judy Rochester

PEN SKETCH

Judy Rochester, Phys. Ed. III came into second year McGill from Oakville Ontario where she was president of the Girl's Athletic Association.

Her first year at McGill proved Judy's ability in both sports; which included the tennis team, synchronized swimming, Water show and ski team; and extra-curricular activities.

This fall Judy returned to become a cheerleaderette, a Red Wing, Secretary of Phys. Ed. Undergraduate Society, a member of R.V.C. House Council, and, as manager of the ski team, M.W.S.A.A. representative to Winter Carnival, organizer of the new Women's Ski Competition.

As well Judy worked on Open House, McGill Fund, Watershow Executive, and "My Fur Lady".

We, the undersigned feel that this outstanding record is sufficient evidence of both her keen interest and exceptional ability, making Judy a wise choice for president of M.W.S.A.A.

Education in Urgent need Of funds

Ottawa, March 5 — (CP) — Dr. G. Edward Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, at London, says Canadian education is facing a "crisis of numbers and money" but that it will be met.

In a statement issued in connection with Canadian Education Week, being observed throughout Canada this week, Dr. Hall—who also is president of the National Conference of Canadian Universities—said:

"Educationalists, labor leaders, businessmen and government officials are severally and jointly conscious of the critical problems in education and are together working hand in hand towards their solution.

"To obtain the $350,000,000 so urgently needed by the universities and colleges of Canada during the next few years will require understanding on the part of the Canadian people, much effort on the part of those who of necessity must seek such funds, and a willingness on the part of everyone to invest in Canada's greatest of all assets—its young people."

DICK BALTZAN, LEO KONYK, ROSS HUGHES NAMED TO INTERCOLLEGIATE ALL-STAR TEAM

Baltzan Only Unanimous Choice As Redmen Line Scores Again

by IRWIN SANKOFF

Once again McGill's answer to 'Duz' has come to the fore on the Intercollegiate hockey season. Dick Baltzan, Leo Konyk and Ross Hughes, a line that does everything, were all named to the forward wall on the annual official Canadian University Press Intercollegiate Hockey League All-Star team.

The teams which were picked by the 'Toronto Varsity', the University of Montreal's 'Le Quartier Latin', Laval's 'Le Carabin' and 'The Daily' had seven players on the first squad due to a tie for one of the positions.

year. Guevremont, Stephen and Houle were also named to the first team two years ago.

Dick Baltzan, the shifty center of the Redmen, gained further recognition for his great play this season as he was the only unanimous choice on the team. The high scoring Baltzan was named to the first team on all four ballots and picked up a maximum of eight points.

Houle, Stephen and Hughes were all picked on the first team ballots of three of the selectors while Ray were all named to the second squad defence.

mond, Konyk and Guevremont each had two first place votes.

At present Baltzan is tied for the lead in the individual scoring race with Raymond, but he leads the league in goals. Hughes and Konyk hold down second place in the scoring with the latter topping the league in assists with 22.

Ray Lavoie of Laval was the choice for netminder on the second team while three defencemen polled a similar number of votes for the two defence posts causing another tie. Jacques Saint-Jean of the Carabins and Lorry Stacey and Dave Jackson, both of Toronto

Intercollegiate All-Star Teams

First Team	Position	Second Team
Cy Guevremont, U of M	(6) Goal	Ray Lavoie, Laval (3)
Dave Stephen, Toronto	(7) Defence	Lorry Stacey, Toronto (2)
Butch Houle, U of M	(7) Defence	Dave Jackson, Toronto (2)
Dick Baltzan, McGill	(8)	Jacques St. Jean, U of M (2)
Ross Hughes, McGill	(6) Centre	Michel Lagace, Laval (5)
Leo Konyk, McGill	(6) R. Wing	John Macdonald, Toronto (2)
Pierre Raymond, Laval	(6) L. Wing	No choice

The tie occurred when Konyk and Laval's Pierre Raymond each picked up two first place and a like number of second place votes for the left wing position. Baltzan was named as centre and Hughes on right wing.

Les Carabins from the U of M placed two players on the dream team while Varsity had but one. Cy Guevremont was the all-star goalie with teammate Butch Houle as one of the defencemen. Dave 'Red' Stephen, the lone Toronto player on the team, took the other defense post.

Houle and Konyk are holdovers from last winter's squad while Baltzan, Guevremont and Stephen were all on the alternate crew last Michel Lagace of Laval and John Macdonald of Toronto were the center and right wing choices on the alternate squad. No one was named to the second all-star team at left wing as Konyk and Raymond split the vote in being named to the first team.

Jackson is the only all-star repeater in this group as he was on the first team last season and the second squad in the previous campaign.

In all 21 players were named on the various ballots. Other McGill players who drew votes were goalie Michel Joyal, and defencemen Don McDonald, Len Sigurdson, and Doug Maule.

Mackenzie Leading Scorer In Basketball League

The official individual Intercollegiate Basketball Association statistics as compiled by the MDBWA show that Al Mackenzie is the leading scorer in the league. Since the game reports have not come in from four games which were played last week, the results are not final.

However, unless some miracle occurred, Al will reign as the highest scorer this year. Mackenzie has scored 232 points in nine games which gives him an average of 25.8 points per game (one game not reported). Ray Monnott, last year's scoring champion from Western, has amassed 185 points in eight games for an average of 23.1 (two games unreported).

Russ Jackson, the McMaster star ended up as highest scoring guard with 193 points in ten games. First man for Queen's was Paul Fedor who ended up with 183 points for the season. Paul edged McGill star Don Wright by only four points.

Justin Cross ended up with 108 points in six games, which gave him 18 points per game average, fifth best in the league.

Chairman Of The S.A.C.

Bill Wilson

In recent years athletic events at McGill have lacked the enthusiastic support found in other colleges due to inadequate pre-game publicity. I am convinced that this situation can be remedied if more authority is granted to the SAC publicity committee and also with better coordination of SEC events with athletic events (eg - dances following hockey games, more pep rallies).

Bill Wilson

The major responsibility of the SAC is to ensure that the athletic programme presented by the University fills all the needs of the student body. In this field I shall work to increase the programme where ever a sincere interest is shown.

PEN SKETCH

We feel that Bill is the best man for the position on the record of his past experience with the Students Athletic Council. This year Bill was Vice-Chairman of the S.A.C., Chairman of the Intercollegiate Athletics Council, and one of the three student members of the Athletic Board.

He is a 4th year Metallurgical Engineer. He was a member of the track team and track Manager for two years. Last year he managed the Intercollegiate Championship Ski Team. He is a member of the Scarlet Key and Freshman Reception Committee and has worked on Blood Drive and Winter Carnival.

My prime interest in running for this position is to try to build up athletics at McGill University on the Intercollegiate level. I will try to do this by:

1) More publicity for McGill athletic events in all media.
2) Athletic identification cards for every McGill student which will allow reduced rates at all intercollegiate athletic events.

PEN SKETCH

We, the undersigned, recommend Don Wright B. Com. 3, for the position of Chairman of the Student's Athletic Council for the following reasons.

Don is presently the Commerce Athletic Representative and a member of the Scarlet Key.

Don's special qualifications for this position are in his outstanding athletic achievements and his proven executive ability. He has been a member of the McGill Intercollegiate Track Team and is currently a prominent member of the McGill Redmen Basketball Team.

Due to his familiarity with both the Intercollegiate and Intramural athletics, and Don's administrat-

By comparison with the vacuum tube the transistor is smaller, uses less current, generates little heat and has considerably longer life. It is proving an invaluable instrument for the designers of electrical equipment.

The manufacturing of transistors and their use in new equipment is but one of a number of challenging projects currently being undertaken by the Northern Electric Company.
